4 Days, 9:00AM-4:00PM

Instructor: Lois Griffel

LG243 Mar 5 - Mar 8

Price: $425/$450

Lois Griffel's workshops are based on her two books, Painting the Impressionist Landscape and Painting Impressionist Color. They explore interpreting the beautiful changing light effects of nature into color. Focus is on color perception, with equal emphasis on the structure of good control of masses and values, with an emphasis on design and composition.

ARTIST BIO:

Lois Griffel studied classical painting at the New York Art Students League with great artists who included Ray Kinstler, Burton Silverman and Harvey Dinnerstein. After moving to Provincetown, MA in 1975, she became close friends with Henry Hensche. Hensche was the greatest influence on Griffel's paintings which now combines a classical background with the color of the impressionists. After stepping in as the new Director of the Cape Code School of Art she expanded the color principles of her predecessors and since then has authored two books published by Watson-Guption, entitled, Painting the Impressionist Landscape and Painting Impressionist Color. www.loisgriffel.com
