In morning sessions campers will be placed in age-based groups of 18 students which will travel through two visual arts and two performing arts centers each day. Campers will explore, learn about and play with art. Mornings will be full of “get to know you” and “get to know art” games and activities based on the weekly theme. It will be a time to get messy and even goofy. Think splatter painting, paper airplanes races, improv games, or dancing like the star. Each morning, process is more important than product.

In afternoon sessions campers will be grouped by both age and focus area. Campers will learn more about and hone their craft. Afternoons are where campers will delve deeper into their chosen area of interest with self-guided exploration time, group activities, and the design and completion of a product to be presented in a Gallery Exhibit or Stage Performance each Friday. Each afternoon, the process will create a great product.

During registration parents will choose either the visual or performing arts area focus. Campers will stay in this focus area throughout the week. If your camper is interested in both, be sure to sign up for multiple weeks; some in visual arts focus and some in performing arts focus. Each focus area is limited to 36 total campers so be sure to register early for the area you like! Transfers between visual and performing arts areas cannot be made during your registered week(s).

Additional activities will include morning snack time (remember to put something extra in your camper's lunch box), lunch time, afternoon activities, on campus field trips, and camp group challenges. On select days there will be treats available for purchase and visits from local celebrities.

Each Friday campers in the visual arts focus groups will display their artwork in the camper gallery and participate in an official gallery reception at 2:00PM. Campers in the performing arts focus groups will perform their dances and dramas on our main stage at 3:00PM. Both groups will have the opportunity to view the other group's work including invitation to the gallery reception and final performance.
